

On April 2014 we held the 21th Minerva Workshop. The topic was "On Decisions, Faces and Meta Cognition " and the meeting took place at Room 527, Bloomfield Building, Faculty of Industrial Engineering, Technion.

Below is the program of the Workshop:

The Minerva Workshop Series

The Minerva Workshop on Decisions, Faces and Meta Cognition

Friday, April 4, 9:00-14:30

9:00 – 9:55	To what extent “facial ideology” affects further judgments and voting preferences.	Michaela Wänke, University of Mannheim, Germany
	Coffee
10:05 - 11:00	Meta-cognitive myopia -- A major obstacle to rational decision making	Klaus Fiedler, University of Heidelberg, Germany
	Coffee
11:10-11:30	Beyond Fluency – Why is confidence inversely related to response time?	Rakefet Ackerman, Technion
11:40-12:10	Small samples, maximization, and the wavy impact of rare events	Ori Plonsky, Technion
	Light lunch

12:30-12:45	On the tendency to use counterproductive punishments	Michael Sobolev, Technion
12:45-13:15	Loss restlessness and gain calmness	Eli Artiditi, Technion
13:15-13:45	In a year, memory will benefit from learning, tomorrow it Won't: Distance and construal level effects on the basis of metamemory judgments	Vered Halamish, Technion
13:55-14:00	Summary	Ido Erev, Technion
14:30	Ha-Havit, Hof Hacarmel	